Eastern Representative—J. P McKin ney, Chleago: 150 Michigan Ave. New York: 254 5th Ave. Entered at the postoffice of Ealt Lake City as second class matter according to Act of Congress, March 2, 1879.

SALT LAKE CITY, - DEC, 9, 1919.

THE PARCELS POST. The President's recommendation of the adoption of a parcels post system for this country is one that we think should meet with almost universal support. Only those who think themselves adversely interested have any reason for opposing this greatly needed convenience-one of the plainest marks of civilization and progress

The President's moderate proposal is that a parcels post be adopted on all rural delivery routes and that 11 pounds-the international limit-be made the limit of carriage in such post, and this with a view to its general ex pansion when the income of the post office will permit it and the postal savings bank shall have been fully established. He remarks further that the post-office department "has a great plant and a great organization, reaching into the most remote hamlet of the United States and with this machinery it is able to do a great many things economically that if a new or ganization were necessary it would be impossible to do without extravagant expenditure. That is the reason why the postal savings bank can be carried on at a small additional cost, and why it is possible to incorporate at a very inconsiderable expense, a parcels post in the rural delivery system. A general parcels post will involve a much greater outlay."

We agree thoroughly with this nonpolitical, non-partisan, business-like proposition for the benefit of the rural districts.

It has been shown many times that the United States is far behind the pace set by practically every other country in the world in the matter of postal facilities. Citizens of the United States pay sixteen cents a pound to send merchandise through the mails within the limits of this country, while they may send the same articles to any country in the world outside the United States for twelve cents a pound.

Congressman Sulzer of New York sent word to the recent meeting of the Postal Progress League that if this organization would send representatives to Washington at once and bring enough pressure to bear on the Committee on Post-Offices and Post-Roads to report the Parcels Post bill, he would promise that the bill should become a law before the end of the present ses

"I have never been able," said Mr Sulzer, "to find any reason for this condition of affairs except the general one that the express companies did not want a parcels post. For some reason I cannot discover the Government does not give this boon to the people. A parcels post would wipe out the postal leffelt and give from $20,000,000 to $50 300,000 additional income each year to the United States.'

In other countries-Germany, France, Holland, England-the parcels post is thorough and comprehensive, carrying large parcels everywhere, yet no one's business is injured, while every industry and almost every householder is vastly benefited. Why would it not be

The President remarks that "the same argument is made against the parcels post that was made against the postal savings banks-that it is intro ducing the government into a business which ought to be conducted by private persons, and is paternalism.'

The argument set forth by the agents of the express companies, however, is that the adoption of the parcels post would curtail the business done by small local stores and by middlemen generally. It does not operate percentfoly in that direction in other countries; why should it do so here?

But quite apart from this fact sunpose a parcels post should result in reducing the number of middlement to some extent-would not that be a gain to the consumers? If the adoption of this improvement should cut into the profits of the middleman, the great masses of both consumers and produc ers would be benefited by such a result

DOMESTIC RELATIONS COURT.

Chicago is to have an institution that seems to be very much needed in other cities, too. It is a court which will be de voted exclusively to the unraveling matrimonial tangles. Petty cases domestic infelicity will be heard by this court and many of there, it is hoped, will never come before the di vorce courts, The judge will giv fatherly advice and help to keep fami-Hes united that but for such advice would be broken up and scattered.

We have no doubt that many care of divorce might be prevented if an effort were made to show the parties the error of their ways. Many grounds for divorce are so trivial that the fact that they are being considered at all proves that there is no valid ground for separation. If the parties were reasoned with, perhaps they could be madto see the folly of their course. In many instances, if there were a spirit of forbearance and forgiveness, wrongs might be righted through repentance rather than divorce. There certainly is room in our civilization for a Domestic Relations court, as well as a juvenile

We believe people are beginning to realize the importance of the family to the state. One author has said recent-"This trifling with the subject of marriage and motherhood must cease. Instead of treating woman as the secand thing in the order of creation, she ecomes the salvation of man himself. Such is the new mother. Such is the Bride, the New Jerusalem, which is to come down as God out of heaven. We nust approach the marriage question as the vital subject of the ages, and as the means of future regeneration. We cease to despise that subject which has already become the corner stone, so long rejected by the builders." This is true, The future depends upon the manner in which family rela tions are kept by the children of men When homes are ruthlessly demolished, the foundation is laid for national de-

A FINE SPECIAL EDITION.

We have received a copy of the "tour st edition" of the Havana Post, a fine pecimen of journalistic effort. It conists of two parts. The first is the regdar news and editorial section. The econd is a special addition printed on neavy paper and illustrated profusely with color cuts. It contains beautiful views of Havana, the Morro Castle, o which American newspaper readers Spain; and many other pictures. We have many special editions in this Country but we have seen none that exects this Cuban paper in typographic beauty. There is not an advertisement in the special section. The entire space is devoted to the interests of Cuba, and it cannot fail to attract the attention of tourists to that island as a winter resort.

MEXICAN GOVERNMENT.

From a friend in Farmington the News' has received a letter containing the following questions:

"What are the principles of the Mexican constitution?
"How is the President of the Republic of Mexico, elected?
"How long is the President's term of

The present constitution of Mexic is dated Feb. 5, 1857, and it declares that the Republic is established under the representative, democratic, and federal form of government, and that the states are free and sovereign in everything relating to their internal administration. The Mexican government is divided, as our own, into three co-ordinate branches. The Mexican congress is divided into the Deputies and the Senate. The deputies are elected every two years in the proportion of one for every 40,000 inhabitants. The Senate consists of two sen ators from each state and the Federal district chosen in the same manner as the deputies.

The executive power is vested in the president. He is elected by electors chosen by the people. His term of office is six years, and he may be reelected indefinitely. His salary is $50,-

The judiciary consists of the district and circuit courts and the supreme court of justice. The main clauses of the constitution with respect to the rights of men, are similar to those of other civilized countries. Allens enjoy the same rights as citizens in many respects but they can be expelled from the country if they prove themselves obnoxious to the authorities.

According to the constitution Mexico a free country where the people rule, but the complaint is that elections have not been free for many years, and that the government is in the hands of autocrats. This seems to be the excuse for the present revolu-

RED CROSS SEALS.

Christmas is in the interest of the fight waged upon tuberculosis, and we gladly call the attention of the public to this fact. In this work everyone can take part without feeling the cost Through united efforts the small outlay will amount to something.

The following account of the history of this mode of collecting funds is sent us by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuber-

"Red Cross Christmas Seals date "Red Cross Christmas Sents date back in their origin to 'charity stamps,' first used for the soldiers' relief funds in Boston in 1862, during the Civil war. After the war, this method of raising money was discon-tinued in this country for a generation, although it found vogue in Por-ugal, Switzerland, Australia, France, Spalin, Denmark, Norway, Russia, Sweden and other European countries, sweden and other European countries, There are now several hundred different types of charity stamps used in all parts of the world.

"Stamps or seals were first used to get money for the anti-tuberculosis crusade in Norway and Sweden in 1904, After being used in these countries for three years as a direct to ties for three years, as a direct result of the interest of Jacob Riis in this movement, the Delaware Anti-Tuberculosis association, headed by Miss Emily P. Bissell, and the Red Miss Emily P. Bussel, and the Red Cross society of Delaware combined in issuing a Tuberculosis Stamp. So successful was this campaign that hearly $3.999 was realized, and the next year. In 1998, the American Red next year, in 1993, the American Red Cross was induced to issue a National Red Cross Tuberculosts Stamp. From this sale, $135.000 was realized, that amount being almost doubled in 1909. This year, for the first time, the sale is organized on a comprehensive basis, taking in all parts of the United States, A million for tuberculosis work is confidently expected."

Some stories of the good work done through the sale of Red Cross stamps ficers of the organization. In Chicago, a little over $9,000 was realized, during the past year, and this money for flys months supported eight free tuberculosis dispensaries, together with eleven visiting nurses, 1.850 new patients being examined and 8 760 visits made to the clinics. In addition to this for the same five months the Central office of the Chicago Tuberculosis Institute was supported, and through this office hundreds of thousands of people were helped in that city and throughout the state of Illinois. In Brooklyn, the $5,000 taken in from the stamp sale has gone to support a ferry boat day camp with an average dally attendance of 75. Many patients have been restored to health and usefulness as the result of this work. In New York, the County Red Cross Day Camp on the roof of the Vanderbilt Clinic has given a chance for new health to hundreds of consumptives Similar camps have fought the fight against tuberculosis in Kingston, N. Y.; Schenectady, N. Y.; Washington, D. C.; Kalamazoo, Mich.; Cleveland, Ohlo, and in many other cities.

Special nurses have been provided from the Red Cross funds and in some cases, tuberculosis dispensaries have been established. Literature has been printed and distributed, lectures given exhibits conducted, and legislatures municipal and county authorities stirred to activity, as the result of the Red Cross Stamp sale of 1909,

President Clawson on Missionary Work

A recent letter from Prest. Rudger Clawson in Liverpool on business topics, concludes with the following para-graphs of general interest: "The work is moving along smoothly in the various missions, and we are having numerous baptisms. We have 323 missionaries in Great Britain, and last month they distributed 352,536 tracts from door to door; held 47,825 open air meetings; had 20,498 gospel conversations; sold 5,818 books; gave away 2,171; visited 3,833 families; and baptized 106 souls. So you see the elders are not idle, but are devoted to the work of the Master. There are many new openings, and if we had more elders, we could use them. We have already held eleven of the thirteen conferences called for the British mission, and they were well attended by both Saints and strangers, and were spirited and instructive.

INTERESTING STATEMENT BY A NON-"MORMON."

The following letter from a gentle man not identified with the Church will be read with considerable interest: Corporation Steam Ferries, Sunder-land, England, Nov. 22, 1810.

land, England, Nov. 22, 1919.

Dear Sir—You have, I have no doubt, heard at various times of the persecution the Eiders of your Church have been subjected to in Great Britain, and you will be pleased to hear that in Sunderland at least, the people are taking a more kindly interest in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

I can remember the time when it was dangerous to hold an open-air meeting; now crowds will stand for hours listen-ing to the Elders. What has made this change? The people are tired of hear-ing 'the abuse of the "Tribune" type, they are now convinced that the 'Mor-mons," as they politely term them, are indeed a loyal, courageous, God-fearing

I will give you an instance. months ago a weekly illustrated, called the P. I. P. (Penny Illustrated Paper), the P. I. P. (Penny Illustrated Paper), announced a special new serial story on "Mormonism" by one Wm. Jarman, and Indeed published a good number of instalments, but owing to the protests from hundreds of readers they abruptly finished it. A great deal of the credit for exposing the mass of lies of Mr. Jarman, is due to President W. P. Monson of the London conference, who by his pertinent questions and convincing arguments absolutely drove out of the field the lackeys of satan. A gentleman from Keighley supported Mr. Jarman, and, strange to say, I-see in this week's "Millennial Star" to hand, Nov. 10, that the Keighley branch of this week's "Millennial Star" to hand, Nov. 10, that the Keighley branch of Latter-day Saints held a social gather-ing, the hall being crowded with mem-mers and friends. Thus out of evil comes good.

You have, in recent numbers of the Descret News, published independent views of the "Mormon" Church, such as the letter of Mr. Erling Bjornson and the statement of Col. C. G. Dobbs of New York, and I can assure you the same have been used here with telling effect. Ves the onlying of the English effect. same have been used here with telling effect. Yes, the opinion of the English has changed indeed. The Elders are treated with respect now, even invited to address Brotherhoods and P. S. A. meetings, and certainly they deserve every respect. I am not a member of the Church, nor have I ever been connected with it, but this I will say, a finer set of moral, God-fearing intellibected with it, but this I will say, a finer set of moral, God-fearing, intelligent young men I have never seen. Their parents in America need have no fear, for I am absolutely convinced as to their good character etc. It will no doubt be a pleasure to you to know that his majesty's government are satisfied with their investigations regarding your neonle in America and see no reayour people in America and see no rea-con for interfering with the work of the Elders in Great Britain. Trusting be remembered to the various Elder who labored in this district, and to the hosts of friends who have emigrated to America. I remain sir, yours very fraternally, WALTER R. MARSHALL.

A MUCK-RAKING TRUST.

New York Evening Post. We learn from a contemporary, with deep regret, of a sad development among magazine editors. It seems that that first step which costs has been taken in the direction of a magazine trust. A community of interest, the editors will doubtless call it when put upon their defense, and we must ad-mit that it is not yet quite clear whethr there is to be at first a geographical division of the country into separate spheres of influence, or whether it is the world of subjects that is to be parcelled out by these lords of magazine reation. But we warn all these carnest souls that co-operation leads read-ily to more sinister things, as their noving stories of industrial trusts ought long since to have shown them. Meetings to prevent duplication of muck-raking effort and wasteful competition are all too likely to tend to questions of rate-making, to "gentle-men's agreements," and so to combinaions in restraint of the author's trade, and the exclusion of others from the nuck-raking field; that is, a limitation of output. With the situation thus in and, we fear that these editors will then yield to the temptation to charge all that the traffic will bear, with scant attention to the crying needs of the public and a consequent rise in the cost of living. Such has been the history of all our benevolent trusts; they all be-gan at lunches presided over by a Lin-coln Steffens of industry—yet see where they have ended.

* ROYAL BLOOD,

Chicago Record-Herald. It is only a few years since the Rev. Mr. Nichols of New York created his American aristocracy, and only a few months since he revised it. Mr. Nich-ols flew high, but now some one comes along who lies higher. A lady down in Tennessee has just published a book to acquaint us with the Order of the Crown in America. These people are he descendants of kings. There are 160 of them. Mr. Nichols, in rigging up his aristocracy, favored his own sec-tion—New York. His earlier researches developed only four aristocrats in Chl-cago, though later he softened and raised the number to six. Mrs. Watson of Memphis favors her own section in the same way. Most of her scions of a sceptered race have their habitat in the genteel south. She allows but four members to New York, just as Mr. Nichols at first allowed but four aristo-crats to Chicago. We ought to thank the lady for thus evening things up. She should be told, however, that

"royal blood" is much more widely dis-tributed than her red-and-gold book would lead one to suppose. Genealogists inform us that the blood of kings has so percolated down in the course of the long centuries that almost everybody has a few drops of it—not a half, certainly, nor a quarter, nor an eighth nor a sixteenth, nor a thirty-second nor a sixteenth, nor a thirty-second, but very possibly a sixty-fourth, and quite probably a hundred and twenty-eighth. Yet the American hankering for distinction must be appeased. If royal blood cannot do it, what can Wrestle, Dames and Daughters, with
